

Her Health Restored

THE misery of sleeplessness can only be realized by those who have experienced it. Nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, neuralgia and that miserable feeling of unrest, can surely be cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. So certain is Dr. Miles of this fact that all druggists are authorized to refund price paid for the first bottle tried, providing it does not benefit. Mrs. Henry Bruns, wife of the well known blacksmith at Grand Junction, Iowa, says: "I was troubled with sleeplessness, nervousness, headache and irregular menstruation; suffering untold misery for years. I used various advertised remedies for female complaints besides being under the care of local physicians, without help. I noticed in Dr. Miles' advertisement the testimonial of a lady cured of ailments similar to mine, and I shall never cease to thank that lady. Her testimonial induced me to use Dr. Miles' Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills, which restored me to health. I cannot say enough for Dr. Miles' Remedies."

ASSERTED IN MADRID

Political Circles That Peace Commissioners Have Now Come to an Agreement.

READS LIKE AN ULTIMATUM

Americans Today on the Philippines to the Spaniards—They Will Be to Accept a Sum of Money or Lose the Islands by Conquest.

Madrid, Nov. 21.—In political circles it is asserted that an agreement has been reached between the peace commissioners in Paris.

The government, it is semi-officially announced, intends to notify the Cuban bondholders that Spain will not pay the Cuban debt, which will not be mentioned in the peace treaty.

The government considers itself completely freed from these entanglements, which fall upon the nation exercising sovereignty and collecting taxes in Cuba.

PEACE COMMISSION.

Position That Will Be Taken by Americans Today.

Paris, Nov. 21.—At the meeting of the peace commissioners this afternoon, the Americans in a written communication, will declare that the third article of the protocol regarding the Philippines is capable of only one fair construction, that no arbitration is needed to elucidate its terms, and that the United States cannot admit any other power to figure here purely as a lexicologist. They will maintain that the two commissions are charged to determine whether Spain or the United States shall in the future own the Philippines.

This will be accompanied by the clear declaration that the United States will possess the Philippines.

Following this declaration the American commissioners will lay before the Spaniards two alternatives.

1. To accept a sum of money from the United States and to cede and evacuate the Philippines.

2. To lose the Philippines to the United States by conquest, with the possibility of other territorial losses to indemnify the United States for the added expense of conquest.

This communication may not be formally designated as an ultimatum, but it will lack naught of the conclusiveness indicated by that word. This will be so plain that the Spanish commissioners will scarcely haggle for money on the first alternative nor cheerish any doubt of American action under the second, should the first be declined.

No one here except the American commissioners knows how much will be tendered Spain as the cheapest and most humane way of settling the difficulty. She is exceedingly anxious to escape the Philippine debt and possibly the sum to be offered may be determined by an analysis of that debt, which consists of $40,000,000 in bonds, on which she realized $36,000,000. Of the latter amount she is believed to have expended some $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 in fighting the United States and a part in attempting to quell the Philippine insurrection. A reasonable guess at the sum for tender would be $20,000,000, although it may fall below that. The Cuban question may come up again.

The American commissioners had thought the discussion on that point finished, but the Spanish commissioners are reported to have declared last week that the mortgages imposed by Spain on the Cuban, as well as on the Philippine revenues, must not be impaired or questioned. This would compel the American commissioners soon—and probably today—to demand whether Spain means to repudiate the plain compact of the protocol to relinquish sovereignty over and title to Cuba.

Cupid's Lasso. Its the way of the world. Cupid discovered a man and a maid putting their heads together. In a confidential way. The little frontiersman throws his lasso over them and there you are: two people are made more or less happy for life. If she is a bright, healthy, cheerful wife they will be more and more happy as the years go on. If she is weak and ailing and incapable there won't be much happiness for either of them. A woman makes a grave mistake who enters upon the obligations and trials of married life handicapped by physical weakness or disease. It is her duty to be a specialist in the treatment of diseases peculiar to women. His "Favorite Prescription" is the only proprietary remedy in the world designed by an authorized, educated physician specifically to cure female troubles. His great thousand-page illustrated book "The Common Sense Medical Adviser" will be sent free for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. For 31 stamps a heavier cloth covered copy will be sent.

Barbara A. Mudd, of Indiana, writes: "I am very thankful for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I had been for some time suffering from nervous prostration, but since taking your medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

The quick constipation cure—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Never gripe. Accept no substitute or imitation.

Three weeks ago the Spanish commissioners accepted the Cuban article in the protocol without conditions, save that its embodiment in the treaty should depend only on an agreement here on all the articles in the protocol. Recently, however, Spain's representatives have said that the Cuban matter had been only temporarily passed and was still in abeyance.

Would Probably Decline.

London, Nov. 21.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "It is asserted that the government would reject an offer of $40,000,000 for the Philippines as ridiculous." The Madrid correspondent of The Standard says: "Spain will decline indemnity for the Philippines if the sum offered appears inadequate in the eyes of the nation." The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "Following the advice of Austria and Germany, Spain will accept America's offer of compensation for the Philippines."

RESIGNED

Mayor of San Juan and the Bishop of Porto Rico.

San Juan de Porto Rico, Nov. 21.—Senor Delvalle, mayor of San Juan, has tendered his resignation because of the "persistent and unreasonable opposition of members of the city council to my efforts in behalf of the city."

The appointment of Senor Mannel Roman as his successor is considered satisfactory.

Monsignor Valdes, the Spanish bishop of Porto Rico has resigned the diocese, alleging that it is impossible for him to serve any other country than Spain. The local clergy were paid by the United States for last September, but no more money is forthcoming and it is generally believed that Bishop Valdes resigned for this reason. Now that government support is removed the future of the Church of Rome in Porto Rico will depend entirely upon voluntary contributions.

$2,000,000 IN GOLD

Blanco to Receive That Amount to Pay Spanish Troops.

Havana, Nov. 21.—Captain General Blanco received from Paris yesterday a cable authorizing him to draw on Paris for $2,000,000 in gold, to be applied in the payment of the Spanish troops in Cuba. This amount is in the proceeds of the draft for $425,000 by the Madrid government on London, which was sold here last week.

The Spanish authorities are making strenuous efforts to complete the evacuation by the end of the year. The transports Montevideo and Covadonga are expected on Nov. 24, the Reina Cristina on the 25th and the Grand Antilla, Juan Forgas and San Ignacio Loyola between Nov. 30 and Dec. 4. These will be followed by the Puerto Rico, Gallart, Montserrat, Colon, Cheribon, Notre Dame Du Salut, Ciudad de Cadiz, San Augustin, Chateau La Fitte, San Francisco, Alfonso XIII, Los Andes, Panell and Grand Alicante. Ten other steamers have recently been chartered to sail from Genoa, Marseilles and Barcelona to complete the evacuation.

CIGARETTES

Not a Legitimate Article of Commerce, Says a Tennessee Judge.

Knoxville, Nov. 21.—The anti-cigarette law passed by the last Tennessee legislature is declared constitutional in an opinion by Judge Caldwell of the supreme court of the state. The opinion declares that cigarettes are not legitimate articles of commerce, because they are wholly noxious and deleterious to health, and therefore are not within the provision of the federal constitution protecting legitimate commerce. It also holds that the conventional cigarette package is not an "original package," in the true commercial sense, for which additional reason the federal law has no application to this statute. The sale of cigarettes has been stopped here by order of the police. The decision will likely be contested in the federal supreme court.

TERRIBLE FOREST FIRE

Thirteen Miles of Flames Sweeping the Ozark (Mo.) Mountains.

Macomb, Mo., Nov. 21.—The largest and most destructive conflagration that has ever swept the Ozark mountains since 1884 is now circumscribing this town for miles and miles, north of and parallel with the Memphis railroad. A scope of country 13 miles long is in flames, miles of fences, orchards, plantations, farms and dry pasture fields, stocked with cattle and other animals and many old settlers' homes lie directly in the line of the ravaging monster. Neighboring find themselves totally unable to check the flames, their only remedy being to hurriedly turn out stock ahead of the flames and desert premises. The latitude being 1,760 feet above the sea and a terrible southwest wind prevails.

OFF THE RESERVATION

White River Utes and Uintah Indians Leave Utah For Colorado.

Price, Utah, Nov. 21.—Nearly all the bucks of the White River Utes and part of the Uintah tribe are off the reservation and probably a great many of them are in Colorado. Henry Harris, a half-breed who was sent out by the acting agent, has so reported to Major Isley. A large detachment of cavalry will be sent after them. The Indians say if the government won't pay for the land they bought from them they will hunt as often as they can get there to hunt.

NICKUM INDICTED.

Perpetual Light Man Will Be Tried For Improper Use of Mails.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—Among the indictments returned late Saturday afternoon by the federal grand jury was one against S. B. Nickum of Logansport, inventor of the so-called "non-flickering, neverchanging, ever safe perpetual light," which has aroused much attention for several months. It is alleged that he used the mails in making contracts with persons to whom he sold rights of territory, and that he distributed posters advertising his light, which he guaranteed to last five years and probably 100. Among those with whom he placed territory was S. B. Chapin, Gainesville, Fla.; L. E. Reley, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; William Harrison, Louisville, and J. W. Crum, Jr., Perkins, O.

Fire started in a dozen places, but was extinguished. The cause of the explosion remains a mystery.

SERIOUS CHARGES.

Captain Bolte, First Illinois, Accused of Attempting to Defraud.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Captain A. L. Bolte of Company C, First Illinois regiment, was arrested Saturday on charges of attempting to defraud the United States government and making false returns. The accusations were made in a report which Captain R. P. P. Wainwright, United States army mustering officer, has forwarded to Washington. In the preliminary examination before the mustering out of the regiment, it is claimed Captain Bolte, in his zeal to obtain pensions for his men, made statements regarding their health and injuries received while in the trenches at Santiago, which were flatly contradicted by the men in their answers to the mustering out officer.

STERNBERG'S REPORT

Number of Medical Officers Inadequate in Time of Peace.

OPPOSES THE ENLISTMENT

Of Men Under Twenty-One Years of Age—There Were Eleven General Hospitals—Seventeen Hundred Died of Disease of Which Typhoid Claimed Six Hundred and Forty.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Surgeon General George M. Sternberg has made his report to the secretary of war. It relates mainly to the work of the medical corps during the war. The number of medical officers, 192, allowed by law to the army is inadequate in time of peace. The insufficiency in time of war was met by the assignment of over 650 contract surgeons. The very small proportion of medical officers having experience of a military character impaired the efficiency of the department at the outset, but many of the staff surgeons from civil life showed great aptitude for the service and speedily became of value as administrative and sanitary officers.

The report recites the condition of camps and hospitals, claims that the medical department did all it was able to do under the circumstances; pronounces against the enlistment of men under 21 years of age; talks of the work of the hospital corps at Santiago and of the inability to get medicines from aboard ships. Speaking of the death rate of the army from disease he says: Up to Sept. 30, 11 general hospitals were established and fully manned and equipped. These had a capacity of nearly 7,000 beds. At the same time certain post hospitals having good accommodations were used for the treatment of army cases generally, without alteration of their official status as post hospitals.

My report presents tabulations compiled from monthly reports of sick and wounded received from May to September inclusive and representing a strength present of 167,168 men. These give full particulars of 1,715 deaths, of which number 640 were occasioned by typhoid fever, 97 by malarial fevers and 393 by diarrhoea and dysentery. The death rates for May and June, .46 and .70 were not in excess of those of the army in time of peace. In July the rate became somewhat higher than that of most well-ordered for cities, 2.15 for the month, or the equivalent of an annual rate of 25.80 per 1,000 living.

In August it became excessive, 4.08 for the month, equal to an annual rate of 48.96 per thousand. In September the influence of the energetic measures taken in July and August to improve the health of the army becomes manifest in the falling of the death rate to 2.45, or the equivalent of an annual rate of 29.40. The same progression to an acme in August with a sudden fall in September is seen in the various ratios given under the specific titles, typhoid fever, malarial fever and diarrhoeal diseases. This is exceedingly gratifying and must be credited, as stated, to the sanitary measures adopted, for our experience in the civil war demonstrates that in the absence of these measures the high ratio of August would have been continued for many months to come.

GRAVE ROBBER

H. V. White Under Arrested Suspected of Attempting to Defraud.

Baldwin, Mich., Nov. 21.—H. V. White of New York is under arrest here suspected of grave robbing for the purpose of defrauding a life insurance company of $2,000, amount of insurance on the life of his brother, Frank M. White. Nov. 10 H. V. White came here for the purpose, he said, of finding his brother, whom he believed to have been foully dealt with somewhere in this vicinity. White spent some time ostensibly looking for the body in the vicinity of where his brother was alleged to have been camping at the time of his last letter. A body was finally found by White, which he claimed to be that of his brother.

Local people were suspicious. An inquest was held but it failed to establish the identity of the deceased. Further investigation developed that the body was that of a Baldwin man, Alexander McLean, who had died in August. His grave was found empty and in such a condition as to show that the robbery had been committed very soon after his burial.

WENT ON A RAMPAGE

Negro Soldiers at Macon Create a Disturbance.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 21.—A crowd of negro soldiers presumably from the Tenth immunes, went on a rampage Saturday night and raised a disturbance that for a time threatened to assume serious proportions. About seven years ago a negro was hung to a tree in the vicinity of the negro camp. About dark Saturday night 100 or more of the dusky soldiers assembled at the spot, and after firing some 500 shots into the tree, cut it down and chopped it into kindlingwood. David Riley, owner of the property, heard the firing and came over on horseback to learn the cause. When the negroes saw him they started after him with cries of "burn him." He escaped only by the fleetness of his horse. The rioters then went to Crumps park, where negroes are forbidden, and, after disarming and beating into insensibility the watchman, began to tear down the buildings, but were interrupted by the arrival of the provost guard. Only a few arrests were made, however, the others escaping in the darkness.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

George Ferguson and Family Blown Up by a Can of Blasting Powder.

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 21.—By an accidental explosion of blasting powder yesterday George W. Ferguson, a quarryman, is dying, two of his children are dead and his wife and another child disfigured for life. Ferguson was hunting for wood to build a fire and found a powdercan apparently full of coal. When he attempted to start a fire with this, a loud explosion followed which knocked one entire side of the house out. At the time Ferguson, his wife and baby in arms and four little girls were grouped about the stove. All were knocked down by the force of the explosion. Iva, aged 6, and Cynthia, aged 11, died almost immediately from injuries, and Ferguson was so terribly injured that he cannot live. The mother and other children are terribly burned and bruised and may not live. It transpired that the can was partially filled with blasting powder.

STATE OF TERROR

Pana Business Men Preval on the Governor to Send More Troops.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—Notwithstanding the declaration by Captain E. C. Butler, in command of the national guards at Pana, made to Governor Tanner that he felt able to preserve order with the troops at his command, a delegation of about 50 business men of Pana, headed by former Mayor Huber, visited the governor at the executive mansion yesterday and informed him that Pana was in a state of terror; that Captain Butler appeared to be inadequate to the occasion, and asking that the governor send more troops to Pana and take stringent measures to preserve the peace. Accordingly Governor Tanner ordered Company C, Fifth Illinois infantry, to proceed to Pana, with Lieutenant Colonel Frank P. Wells, Fifth infantry, in command.

LORD BERESFORD

Advices China How to Maintain the "Open Door" For Commerce.

Shanghai, Nov. 21.—Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, who is visiting China in the interests of the British associated chambers of commerce, in the course of a speech here dwelt upon the "grave dangers threatening British commerce so long as the dominant military position of Russia and the effete condition of China are allowed to continue."

He insisted upon the necessity of a "firm policy," which should include the organization of a thoroughly equipped Chinese army and a commercial alliance with the United States, Germany and Japan, in order to preserve China's integrity and maintain the "open door."

Alton, Ill., Nov. 21.—Eight persons were injured in a wreck on the Big Four railroad last evening. The train was a special and was derailed by a cow at the Wood river bridge, three miles east of Alton. At the entrance to the bridge a frightened cow jumped under the passing car, derailling it. The cars struck the side of the bridge and were demolished. Only one passenger is injured fatally.

CORBETT AND SHARKEY

Every Indication the Big Fight Will Come Off Tomorrow Night.

New York, Nov. 21.—That the 20-round bout between James J. Corbett and Thomas Sharkey will be brought to a decision before the Lenox Athletic club tomorrow night without any police or other interference is now almost a certainty. With the big contest only 34 hours hence, everything seems to be running smoothly, for as yet not one word of protest, lay or clerical, has been uttered in reference to the meeting of the big pugilists within the limits of the city.

THANKSGIVING day should be more than a feast day.

This is the season of the year for business men to let the people know what they have to supply their needs.

The North Vernon Republican need not worry about the republicans of Jackson county. From evidence at hand there seems to be a field for our neighbor in Jennings county.

There never was a time when the people of the United States have had more to be thankful for than now.
This should be a joyous Thanksgiving.

The Corbett-Sharkey fight, which will take place tomorrow night is the subject of much talk just now. It matters little which one wins. In fact it may be presumed that both need a thrashing.

Any one of those who have announced as candidates for United States senator to succeed Senator Turpie would if elected reflect credit upon the state.
All are men of marked ability and are held in high esteem by the people of Indiana. For and against some of these men the question of geographical location is being urged, and probably without any real good reason. The fact that Mr. Beveridge resides in Indianapolis should not weaken his candidacy. It would be equally as absurd for the people of Southern Indiana to oppose Judge Taylor because his home is in Fort Wayne, or for the people in the northern part of the state to oppose Mr. Posey because he hails from the pocket. The only geographical question that should be considered is that the man elected should be a loyal Hoosier, and every candidate is that.

Yellow Jaundice Cured.

It is with pleasure we publish the fol-

some of the best physicians in our city and all to no avail. Dr. Bell, our druggist, recommending them to any person suffering from this terrible malady. I am

WRECKED THE VESSEL.

A Possible Danger of Steam Jets as Fire Extinguishers.

For many years steam jets have been considered excellent means for extinguishing fires in inclosed spaces, and examples of their good services have been abundant. The theory of their action of course is, like that of the several kinds of fire extinguishing powders which have been proposed at different times, that the steam in the one case and the stifling fumes from the powders in the other displace the air in any particular space under consideration, and with the oxygen as well, by which alone combustion can be sustained.

In at least one instance, however, the position was taken that if the steam jets did not extinguish a fire promptly they soon became a source of danger, and as such were held accountable for the loss about a year ago of a cargo steamer carrying several hundred tons of coal and as many more of miscellaneous chemicals and old rope. Fire broke out in one of the holds, which were fitted with steam jet fixtures, and the jets were at once turned on. On the day following it was proposed to try a hose in addition to the jets, and one of the upper deck hatches was therefore taken off.

The almost immediate result was a violent explosion, killing one of the officers and seriously injuring another.
All the other hatches were blown off at the same time, and the ship began to leak, so that she soon had to be abandoned. One explanation advanced was that the steam from the jets, passing over the incandescent cargo, formed water gas, which, with suitable air admixture, became explosive, with the result noted. The theory is not a comforting one, but whether it portrays a possible condition of things yet remains to be demonstrated.—Cassier's Magazine.

A BOY AND A BALLOON.

Or How Business Was Interrupted In a Chicago Department Store.

The small boy had purchased a rubber balloon in the toy department.

He was tagging after his mother in the crowded first floor of the big department store when some one jolted against him so that he let go of the string. The rubber balloon floated upward until it reached the ceiling.

The boy howled in dismay, and his mother dropped her bundles, imagining that some one had walked on him.

There was the balloon bobbing against the ceiling.

The boy held up his hands toward it and demanded that it be returned to him. His mother gathered up her bundles and scolded him for being careless.

Then the aisle became blocked with people who offered suggestions.

"Get a long fishing pole," said one.

"How did it happen?" asked another.

"How long will it stay up there?"

inquired yet another.

A porter came running to find out what was the matter. A dozen willing people pointed out the balloon that rested lightly against the ceiling and was shifted about by every little movement of the air.

"I don't see how I can get it," said he.

"Oh, you ought to get it for the boy," said a large man, who had established himself as master of ceremonies. "You bought the balloon here in the store, didn't you, madam?"

"Yes, sir," she replied.

"She bought the balloon here in the store," said the large man to the porter.

"I think if you get a long window pole and stand on that highest shelf that you can fish it down."

It was a 5-cent balloon, but the porter

went after it as if it were the bag of gold that hangs from every rainbow.

He found the pole and climbed to the high shelf. Several hundred people stopped their shopping and watched him for five minutes as he vainly poked in an effort to fasten the end of the window pole in the dangling string.

At last he was successful.

The balloon was slowly hauled down, to the intense gratification of every one except the small boy, who had become interested in a small aquarium containing goldfish.—Chicago Record.

COLOR IN PLANTS.

The Most Important Coloring Substance
In the World Is Chlorophyll.

Chlorophyll is perhaps the most important coloring substance in the world, for upon this substance depend the characteristic activity of plants, the synthesis of complex compounds from carbon dioxide and water process, upon which the existence of all living things is ultimately conditioned. Only in a very few unimportant forms devoid of chlorophyll can the synthesis of complex from simple compounds or from the elements be accomplished. The function of chlorophyll may only be comprehended when its chief physical properties are understood. These may be best illustrated by placing a gram of chopped leaves of grass or geranium in a few cubic centimeters of strong alcohol for an hour.

Such a solution will be of a bright, clear green color, and when the vessel containing it is held in such a manner that the sunlight is reflected from the surface of the liquid it will appear blood red, due to its property of fluorescence, that of changing the wave length of the rays of light of the violet and of the spectrum in such a manner as to make them coincide with those of the red end. It is by examination of light which has passed through a solution of chlorophyll, however, that the greatest insight into its physical properties may be gained. If such a ray of light is passed through a prism and spread out on a screen, it may be seen that there are several large intervals of dark bands in the spectrum. The rays of light which would have occupied these spaces have been absorbed by the chlorophyll and converted into heat and other forms of energy. This energy is directly available to the protoplasm containing the chlorophyll, and by means of it the synthesis of complex substance may be accomplished.—Popular Science Monthly.

Who Were the Basques?

The dialect of the Spanish Basque provinces, such as we have it in the songs and proverbs which have acquired for this people quite a European reputation, is really a hideous mixture of Spanish patois—Spanish, more or less adulterated with French—and Moorish or Arabic. Many of their words have a curious resemblance to corresponding English words—just as we find in our English slang a good many gypsy words. For instance, the Basque word gorry (which signifies red, rusty, bloody, gory), the word gono (gown), escuro (school), irina (farina, flour), carrizton (cousin, courier), du (doos, from the verb to do), letra (letter), teiltare (roof, tile), cantua (song, canticle), boina (bonnet), etc.

The music of the popular Basque songs is in general plaintive and con-ched in the minor keys. The melodies, like the language, are a tradition—as no composers' names have come down to us—and this, again, is a singular compound of Spanish and oriental melody. It also confirms my view of the origin of this interesting people, so that I have the language and the music both fighting to uphold my theory.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Suggestion.

It was suggested by some one at the late Louisville convention that women residing in market towns should open their clubrooms on market days for the benefit of the women who come into town, that they might have a pleasant and comfortable place in which to rest and lunch. If practicable, the idea is a good one, and women in surrounding places might by that means be interested in uniting and working for something most needed in their own community.

DREAM MYSTERIES.

MAY BE SHADY MEMORIES OF PRE-VIOUS EXISTENCE.

Little Satisfaction Found In the Many Explanations Given For the Formation of the Phantasmagoria Which Come to Us as We Sleep.

In a thoughtful, well written article on "Dreams and Their Mysteries," in
The North American Review, Elizabeth Bisland reminds us that we are so familiar with the phenomena of sleep that the strangest dreams come as no surprise. She says, truly:

"Prove that you have the hypnotic power to make a man feel pain or pleasure without material cause; that you can force him to believe himself a soldier, say, or a woman, or that he is three feet high, or two persons at once, and he will gaze upon this occult mastery with awe and wild surprise—he who every 24 hours of his life, with no more magic potion than healthy fatigue, with no greater wonder working weapon than a pillow, may create for himself phantasmal delusions beside which all mesmeric suggestions are but the flattest of dull commonplace."

Because people are afraid of being thought superstitious with regard to dreams there has been an unscientific avoidance of the whole topic, which is no less superstitious and puerile, the consequence of which foolish revulsion has been that one of the most curious functions of the brain is still in a period of universal investigation—left unexamined and unexplained. Some dabbling there has been in the matter, but so far no feasible explanation has been offered of those strange illusions of sleep with which all mankind is familiar. The results up to this time of this dabbling are for the most part of little more value than the contents of the greasy, well thumbed dreambooks that formed the only and dearly beloved library of eighteenth century milkmaids and apprentices. The greater portion of such labor as has been bestowed on the subject has been mainly directed toward efforts to prove the extreme rapidity with which the dream passes through the mind, and that it is some trivial outward cause at the moment of rousing from slumber, such as a noise, a light or the like, which wakes the brain to this miraculous celerity of imaginative creation.

The general conviction that dreams occur only at the instant of the awakening shows how little real attention has been bestowed upon the matter, since the most casual observation of "the dog that hunts in dreams" would show that he may be chasing the wild deer and following the roe in the gray kingdoms of seeming without breaking his slumbers. He will start and twitch and give tongue after the phantom quarry he dreams himself pursuing. But given the truth of any one of these assertions, still the heart of the mystery has not yet been plucked out, since it is not explained why a noise or a gleam of light —such as the senses are quite familiar with in waking consciousness—should at the moment of rousing cause the brain to create with inconceivable rapidity a series of phantasmagoria in order to explain to itself the familiar phenomena of light or sound.

It is broadly asserted by many that the memory retains each and every experience which life has presented for its contemplation, but this is hardly true.
It makes to a certain extent a choice and chooses oftentimes with apparent caprice. To demonstrate the truth of this, let one endeavor to recall the first impression retained by his childish mind, and it usually proves to be something extremely trivial.

A lady, interrogated as to this, declared her first clear memory was a sense of the comfort for her tired little 2-year old body of the clean linen sheets of the bed at the end of the most perilous and adventurous journey, and of whose startling incidents her memory had preserved nothing. Again this capricious faculty will seize on some few high lights in a vivid picture and reject all the unimportant details. As a rule, however, it is the profound stirrings of the emotions which wake the memory to activity. A woman never forgets her first lover. A man to the end of his life can recall his first triumph.

Miss Bisland believes that we inherit many of the memories that come to us, waking as well as sleeping. Every one has felt many times in his life a sense of familiarity with incidents that have had no place in his own experience and has found it impossible to offer any explanation for the feeling. Coming suddenly around a turn of a hill upon a fair and unknown landscape, his heart may bound with a keen sense of recognition of its unfamiliar outlines. In the midst of a tingling sense of emotion a sensation of the whole incident being a mere dull repetition will rob it of its joy or pain. A sentence begun by a friend is recognized as trite and old before it is half done, though it refers to matters new to the hearer. A sound, a perfume, a sensation, will awaken feelings having no connection with the occasion.

In sleep the brain is peculiarly active in certain directions, not being distracted by the multitude of impressions constantly conveyed to it by the live senses, and experiments with hypnotic sleepers prove that some of its functions become in sleep abnormally acute and vigorous.
Why not the function of memory? The possessions which during the waking hours were useless, and therefore rejected by the will, surge up again, vivid and potent, and troop before the perception unsummoned, motley and fantastic, serving no purpose more apparent than to do the idle, disconnected recollections of one's waking moments of dreaminess, and yet it may hap, withal, that the tireless brain, forever turning over and over its heirlooms in the night, is seeking here an inspiration or there a memory to be used in that fierce and complex struggle called life.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

THE CUMBERLAND

At anchor in Hampton Roads we lay On board of the Cumberland, sloop-of-war, And at times from the fortress across the bay

The alarm of drums swept past
Or a bugle blast

From the camp on the shore.

Then far away to the south up rose
A little feather of snow white smoke,

And we knew that the iron ship of our foes

Was steadily steering its course
To try the force

Of our ribs of oak.

Down upon us heavily runs,
Silent and sullen, the floating fort;

Then comes a puff of smoke from her guns

And leaps the terrible death,
With fiery breath,

From each open port.

We are not idle, but send her straight
Defiance back in a full broadside!

As hail rebounds from a roof of slate Rebounds our heavier hail

From each iron scale
Of the monster's hide.

"Strike your flag!" the rebel cries
In his arrogant old plantation strain.

"Never!" our gallant Morris replies,
"We are better to sink than to yield!"

And the whole air pealed
With the cheers of our men.

Then like a kraken huge and black
She crushed our ribs in her iron grasp.

Down went the Cumberland all a wrack,
With a sudden shudder of death

And the cannon's breath
For her dying gasp.

Next morn, as the sun rose over the bay,
Still floated our flag at the mainmast head.

Lord, how beautiful was thy day!
Every waft of the air

Was a whisper of prayer
Or a dirge for the dead.

Ho, brave hearts that went down in the sea!

Ye are at peace in the troubled stream.
Ho, brave land, with hearts like these,

Thy flag, that is rent in twain,
Shall be one again

And without a seam!
—Longfellow.

"FILLED" BEDCLOTHES.

They Are Moisture Attractors, and Death Lurks In Them.

Science, thy name is adulteration!
Another terror has been added to existence by the revelations made by a trade paper of the processes by which certain manufacturers "fill" the sheets and blankets with which they flood the market.

We are told that after a piece of waste sheeting has been woven the cloth is passed over a trough containing a solution of zinc, sulphate of magnesia (commonly known as epsom salts) and water. This is called a sprinkler. A revolving brush plays a spray of these noxious ingredients upon the cloth, with the result that a 50 pound piece after the operation weighs 7 1/2 pounds more than when it left the loom. As the goods are sold by the pound, the object is evident.

But what about the purchaser? A piece cuts up into ten pairs of sheets.
Each pair therefore contains three-quarters of a pound of moisture attracting material. The results are appalling.
As soon as a wet day comes the sheets become damp and the luckless wight who sleeps between them is apt to contract a chill that may send him to the bourn whence no traveler returns.
Even if his suspicions are aroused and he boldly casts aside the sheets and wraps himself in the blankets it may avail him nothing, for the blanket makers have learned the trick, and the same ill results may ensue.

Next we shall hear that the counterpane makers are equally astute, and the timid sleeper may be driven to provide himself with the woolen sleeping bags that suggest travels in the farthest north. The only advantage of these "filled" or heavily "sized" sheets and blankets is that they are death to insects, but if they kill the sleeper as well as the pestilential insects—to say nothing of the cimetis letularius—what boots it?—London Telegraph.

A Financial Embarrassment.

A lady who had a kindly remembrance for all her domestic servants met an erstwhile washerwoman and stopped to ask her how she fared.

"Oh, mem, it's terrible financial distress me an the childer's in!"

"Why, what is it—are you out of employment?"

"No, mem; work's in a fair state o' stidiness, and not a cint do I owe, but it's lashing o' trouble I've got!"

"Are you not paid promptly?"

"As promptly as the day comes round."

"What is your financial distress, then?"

"Well, mem" (in a burst of horror),
"what's the killin me is, I earn $6 the week an pay $8 for me board, an God only knows how I do it!"—Short

Antique.

Says a dealer in antiques: "I had a fat woman in here the other day.
Well, sir, she was a caution, was that fat woman. She would have the antique all through her house, sir, nothing but the antique for her house decoration.
Why, sir, judging by what that fat woman said and bought in this shop, I should judge she was heartbroken, sir, that she couldn't get the shades of her ancestors for her parlor windows."

ANCIENT WARFARE.

How an English Castle Was Attacked In the Fifteenth Century.

Sir John Fastolf had by his will devised his castle, called Caister, to John Paston. As a fortification, it was an excellent defense against foreign invaders, and as a residence it was worthy of royalty itself. In fact, the Duke of Gloster, afterward Richard III, at one time contemplated making it his abode.
While Paston was trying to establish his title in the courts the Duke of Norfolk purchased a pretended claim to it and sought to gain possession by force.
The Pastons did not propose to yield, though the duke was then probably the most powerful noble in England, and John Paston was his livid servant.
Four professional soldiers were sent up from London to aid in the defense.
They are described as "provyd men, conning in verr and can wel schote both gounes and crossbowes and devyse bolwerkys and keep wache and warde They be sadde and wel advyced, saving on of them, whyche is ballyd (bald) beyit he is no brawler. Ye shall fynd them gentylmyll comfortable fellows, super that they dare abyde by their talking."

Young John Paston, aided by these four and by a handful of personal friend and followers, held the castle for several weeks against a siege conducted by the duke's army of 3,000 men. By the terms of the final surrender the besieged were allowed their lives and goods, horses and harness, and a respite for 14 days, in which to go where they pleased.
They reported that they were forced to surrender by "lak of vitayl, gonepow-dyr, meny herts and surete of rescue." Edward IV had refrained from interfering in this extraordinary contest, because the troubles with Warwick were gathering thickly about him, and the Mowbrays were too necessary to be satisfied.—Sewanee Review.

JUDGE VOYLES' ILLNESS.

Report from Salem That He May Live But a Few Days Yet.

From a special to the Indianapolis Journal and from word received here from Salem it is learned that the condition of Judge Samuel B. Voyles is more alarming than it has been for some time. He is said to be unconscious and that he may live but a few days yet. It will be remembered that Judge Voyles had a stroke of paralysis last May and has been wholly incapacitated for the duties of the bench since. Judge John C. Lawler has held court for him most of the time since his illness.

The Jackson circuit court was to have convened today, but it seems that Judge Voyles has not been able to appoint any one to act for him, so there will probably be no court before Thursday at which time the county officers are authorized by statute to appoint some one to hold court during the term.

It frequently occurs that a choice must be made between good men.

THANKSGIVING day should be more than a feast day.

This is the season of the year for business men to let the people know what they have to supply their needs.

The North Vernon Republican need not worry about the republicans of Jackson county. From evidence at hand there seems to be a field for our neighbor in Jennings county.

There never was a time when the people of the United States have had more to be thankful for than now. This should be a joyous Thanksgiving.

The Corbett-Sharkey fight, which will take place tomorrow night is the subject of much talk just now. It matters little which one wins. In fact it may be presumed that both need a thrashing.

Any one of those who have announced as candidates for United States senator to succeed Senator Turpie would if elected reflect credit upon the state. All are men of marked ability and are held in high esteem by the people of Indiana. For and against some of these men the question of geographical location is being urged, and probably without any real good reason. The fact that Mr. Beveridge resides in Indianapolis should not weaken his candidacy. It would be equally as absurd for the people of Southern Indiana to oppose Judge Taylor because his home is in Fort Wayne, or for the people in the northern part of the state to oppose Mr. Posey because he hails from the pocket. The only geographical question that should be considered is that the man elected should be a loyal Hoosier, and every candidate is that.

Yellow Jaundice Cured.

Suffering humanity should be supplied with every means possible for its relief. It is with pleasure we publish the following: This is to certify that I was a terrible sufferer from Yellow Jaundice for over six months, and was treated by some of the best physicians in our city and all to no avail. Dr. Bell, our druggist, recommended Electric Bitters, and after taking two bottles, I was entirely cured. I now take great pleasure in recommending them to any person suffering from this terrible malady. I am gratefully yours, M. A. Hogarty, Lexington, Ky.

WRECKED THE VESSEL.

A Possible Danger of Steam Jets as Fire Extinguishers.

For many years steam jets have been considered excellent means for extinguishing fires in inclosed spaces, and examples of their good services have been abundant. The theory of their action of course is, like that of the several kinds of fire extinguishing powders which have been proposed at different times, that the steam in the one case and the stifling fumes from the powders in the other displace the air in any particular space under consideration, and with the oxygen as well, by which alone combustion can be sustained.

In at least one instance, however, the position was taken that if the steam jets did not extinguish a fire promptly they soon became a source of danger, and as such were held accountable for the loss about a year ago of a cargo steamer carrying several hundred tons of coal and as many more of miscellaneous chemicals and old rope. Fire broke out in one of the holds, which were fitted with steam jet fixtures, and the jets were at once turned on. On the day following it was proposed to try a hose in addition to the jets, and one of the upper deck hatches was therefore taken off.

The almost immediate result was a violent explosion, killing one of the officers and seriously injuring another. All the other hatches were blown off at the same time, and the ship began to leak, so that she soon had to be abandoned. One explanation advanced was that the steam from the jets, passing over the incandescent cargo, formed water-gas, which, with suitable air admixture, became explosive, with the result noted. The theory is not a comforting one, but whether it portrays a possible condition of things yet remains to be demonstrated.—Cassier's Magazine.

A BOY AND A BALLOON.

Or How Business Was Interrupted in a Chicago Department Store.

The small boy had purchased a rubber balloon in the toy department.

He was tagging after his mother in the crowded first floor of the big department store when some one jolted against him so that he let go of the string. The rubber balloon floated upward until it reached the ceiling.

The boy howled in dismay, and his mother dropped her bundles, imagining that some one had walked on him.

There was the balloon bobbing against the ceiling.

The boy held up his hands toward it and demanded that it be returned to him. His mother gathered up her bundles and scolded him for being careless. Then the aisle became blocked with people who offered suggestions.

"Get a long fishing pole," said one. "How did it happen?" asked another. "How long will it stay up there?" inquired yet another.

A porter came running to find out what was the matter. A dozen willing people pointed out the balloon that rested lightly against the ceiling and was shifted about by every little movement of the air.

"I don't see how I can get it," said he.

"Oh, you ought to get it for the boy," said a large man, who had established himself as master of ceremonies. "You bought the balloon here in the store, didn't you, madam?"

"Yes, sir," she replied.

"She bought the balloon here in the store," said the large man to the porter. "I think if you get a long window pole and stand on that highest shelf that you can fish it down."

It was a 5 cent balloon, but the porter went after it as if it were the bag of gold that hangs from every rainbow.

He found the pole and climbed to the high shelf. Several hundred people stopped their shopping and watched him for five minutes as he vainly poked in an effort to fasten the end of the window pole in the dangling string.

At last he was successful.

The balloon was slowly hauled down, to the intense gratification of every one except the small boy, who had become interested in a small aquarium containing goldfish.—Chicago Record.

COLOR IN PLANTS.

The Most Important Coloring Substance in the World Is Chlorophyll.

Chlorophyll is perhaps the most important coloring substance in the world, for upon this substance depend the characteristic activity of plants, the synthesis of complex compounds from carbon dioxide and water process, upon which the existence of all living things is ultimately conditioned. Only in a very few unimportant forms devoid of chlorophyll can the synthesis of complex from simple compounds or from the elements be accomplished. The function of chlorophyll may only be comprehended when its chief physical properties are understood. These may be best illustrated by placing a gram of chopped leaves of grass or geranium in a few cubic centimeters of strong alcohol for an hour.

Such a solution will be of a bright, clear green color, and when the vessel containing it is held in such a manner that the sunlight is reflected from the surface of the liquid it will appear blood red, due to its property of fluorescence, that of changing the wave length of the rays of light of the violet and of the spectrum in such a manner as to make them coincide with those of the red end. It is by examination of light which has passed through a solution of chlorophyll, however, that the greatest insight into its physical properties may be gained. If such a ray of light is passed through a prism and spread out on a screen, it may be seen that there are several large intervals of dark bands in the spectrum. The rays of light which would have occupied these spaces have been absorbed by the chlorophyll and converted into heat and other forms of energy. This energy is directly available to the protoplasm containing the chlorophyll, and by means of it the synthesis of complex substance may be accomplished.—Popular Science Monthly.

Who Were the Basques?

The dialect of the Spanish Basque provinces, such as we have it in the songs and proverbs which have acquired for this people quite a European reputation, is really a hideous mixture of Spanish patois—Spanish, more or less adulterated with French—and Moorish or Arabic. Many of their words have a curious resemblance to corresponding English words—just as we find in our English slang a good many gypsy words. For instance, the Basque word gorry (which signifies red, rusty, bloody, gory), the word gono (gown), escura (school), irina (farina, flour), curritzen (course, courier), du (does, from the verb to do), letra (letter), tellature (roof, tile), cantua (song, canticle), boina (bonnet), etc.

The music of the popular Basque songs is in general plaintive and conched in the minor keys. The melodies, like the language, are a tradition—as no composers' names have come down to us—and this, again, is a singular compound of Spanish and oriental melody. It also confirms my view of the origin of this interesting people, so that I have the language and the music both fighting to uphold my theory.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Suggestion.

It was suggested by some one at the late Louisville convention that women residing in market towns should open their clubrooms on market days for the benefit of the women who come into town, that they might have a pleasant and comfortable place in which to rest and lunch. If practicable, the idea is a good one, and women in surrounding places might by that means be interested in visiting and working for something much needed in their own community.

DREAM MYSTERIES.

MAY BE SHADY MEMORIES OF PREVIOUS EXISTENCE.

Little Satisfaction Found in the Many Explanations Given For the Formation of the Phantasmagoria Which Come to Us as We Sleep.

In a thoughtful, well written article on "Dreams and Their Mysteries," in The North American Review, Elizabeth Bisland reminds us that we are so familiar with the phenomena of sleep that the strangest dreams come as no surprise. She says, truly:

"Prove that you have the hypnotic power to make a man feel pain or pleasure without material cause; that you can force him to believe himself a soldier, say, or a woman, or that he is three feet high, or two persons at once, and he will gaze upon this occult mastery with awe and wild surprise—who every 24 hours of his life, with no more magic potion than healthy fatigue, with no greater wonder working weapon than a pillow, may create for himself phantasmic delusions beside which all mesmeric suggestions are but the flat-test of dull commonplace."

Because people are afraid of being thought superstitious with regard to dreams there has been an unscientific avoidance of the whole topic, which is no less superstitious and puerile, the consequence of which foolish revulsion has been that one of the most curious functions of the brain is still in a period of universal investigation—left unexamined and unexplained. Some dabbling there has been in the matter, but so far no tenable explanation has been offered of those strange illusions of sleep with which all mankind is familiar. The results up to this time of this dabbling are for the most part of little more value than the contents of the greasy, well thumbed dreambooks that formed the only and dearly beloved library of eighteenth century milkmaids and apprentices. The greater portion of such labor as has been bestowed on the subject has been mainly directed toward efforts to prove the extreme rapidity with which the dream passes through the mind, and that it is some trivial outward cause at the moment of rousing from slumber, such as a noise, a light or the like, which wakes the brain to this marvellous celerity of imaginative creation.

The general conviction that dreams occur only at the instant of the awakening shows how little real attention has been bestowed upon the matter, since the most casual observation of "the dog that hunts in dreams" would show that he may be chasing the wild deer and following the roe in the gray kingdoms of seeming without breaking his slumbers. He will start and twitch and give tongue after the phantom quarry he dreams himself pursuing. But given the truth of any one of these assertions, still the heart of the mystery has not yet been plucked out, since it is not explained why a noise or a gleam of light—such as the senses are quite familiar with in waking consciousness—should at the moment of rousing cause the brain to create with inconceivable rapidity a series of phantasmagoria in order to explain to itself the familiar phenomena of light or sound.

It is broadly asserted by many that the memory retains each and every experience which life has presented for its contemplation, but this is hardly true. It makes to a certain extent a choice and chooses oftentimes with apparent caprice. To demonstrate the truth of this, let one endeavor to recall the first impression retained by his childish mind, and it usually proves to be something extremely trivial.

A lady, interrogated as to this, declared her first clear memory was a sense of the comfort to her tired little 2-year old body of the clean linen sheets of the bed at the end of the most perilous and adventurous journey, and of whose startling incidents her memory had preserved nothing. Again this capricious faculty will seize on some few high lights in a vivid picture and reject all the unimportant details. As a rule, however, it is the profound stirrings of the emotions which wake the memory to activity. A woman never forgets her first love. A man to the end of his life can recall his first triumph.

Miss Bisland believes that we inherit many of the memories that come to us, waking as well as sleeping. Every one has felt many times in his life a sense of familiarity with incidents that have had no place in his own experience and has found it impossible to offer any explanation for the feeling. Coming suddenly around a turn of a hill upon a fair and unknown landscape, his heart may bound with a keen sense of recognition of its unfamiliar outlines. In the midst of a tingling sense of emotion a sensation of the whole incident being a mere dull repetition will rob it of its joy or pain. A sentence begun by a friend is recognized as trite and old before it is half done, though it refers to matters new to the hearer. A sound, a perfume, a sensation, will awaken feelings having no connection with the occasion.

In sleep the brain is peculiarly active in certain directions, not being distracted by the multitude of impressions constantly conveyed to it by the live senses, and experiments with hypnotic sleepers prove that some of its functions become in sleep abnormally acute and vigorous. Why not the function of memory? The possessions which during the waking hours were useless, and therefore rejected by the will, surge up again, vivid and potent, and troop before the perception unsummoned, motley and fantastic, serving no purpose more apparent than do the idle, disconnected recollections of one's waking moments of dreaminess, and yet it may hap, withal, that the tireless brain, forever turning over and over its heirlooms in the night, is seeking here an inspiration or there a memory to be used in that fierce and complex struggle called life.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

THE CUMBERLAND

At anchor in Hampton Roads we lay On board of the Cumberland, stoop-of-war.

And at times from the fortress across the bay The alarm of drums swept past Or a bugle blast From the camp on the shore.

Then far away to the south up rose A little feather of snow white smoke, And we knew that the iron ship of our foes Was steadily steering its course To try the force Of our ribs of oak.

Down upon us heavily runs, Silent and sullen, the floating fort; Then comes a puff of smoke from her guns And leaps the terrible death, With fiery breath, From each open port.

We are not idle, but send her straight defiance back in a full broadside! As hail rebounds from a roof of slate Rebounds our heavier hail From each iron scale Of the monster's hide.

"Strike your flag!" the rebel cries In brave land, old hearts like strain. "Never!" our gallant Morris replies. "It is better to sink than to yield!" And the whole air pealed With the cheers of our men.

Then like a kraken huge and black She crushed our ribs in her iron grasp. Down went the Cumberland all a wrack, With a sudden shudder of death And the cannon's breath For her dying gasp.

Next morn, as the sun rose over the bay, Still floated our flag at the mainmast head.

Lord, how beautiful was thy day! Every waft of the air Was a whisper of prayer Or a dirge for the dead.

Ho, brave hearts that went down in the seas! Ye are at peace in the troubled stream. Ho, brave land, old hearts like these, Thy flag, that is rent in twain, Shall be one again And without a seam! —Longfellow.

"FILLED" BEDCLOTHES.

They Are Moisture Attractors, and Death Lurks in Them.

Science, thy name is adulteration! Another terror has been added to existence by the revelations made by a trade paper of the processes by which certain manufacturers "fill" the sheets and blankets with which they flood the market.

We are told that after a piece of waste sheeting has been woven the cloth is passed over a trough containing a solution of zinc, sulphate of magnesia (commonly known as epsom salts) and water. This is called a sprinkler. A revolving brush plays a spray of these noxious ingredients upon the cloth, with the result that a 50 pound piece after the operation weighs 7 1/2 pounds more than when it left the loom. As the goods are sold by the pound, the object is evident.

But what about the purchaser? A piece cuts up into ten pairs of sheets. Each pair therefore contains three-quarters of a pound of moisture attracting material. The results are appalling. As soon as a wet day comes the sheets become damp and the luckless wight who sleeps between them is apt to contract a chill that may send him to the hospital whence no traveler returns. Even if his suspicions are aroused and he boldly casts aside the sheets and wraps himself in the blankets it may avail him nothing, for the blanket makers have learned the trick, and the same ill results may ensue.

Next we shall hear that the counterpane makers are equally astute, and the timid sleeper may be driven to provide himself with the woolen sleeping bags that suggest travels in the farthest north. The only advantage of these "filled" or heavily "sized" sheets and blankets is that they are death to insects, but if they kill the sleeper as well as the pestiferous insects—to say nothing of the cimetery lecturers—what boots it?—London Telegraph.

A Financial Embarrassment.

A lady who had a kindly remembrance for all her domestic servants met an erstwhile washerwoman and stopped to ask her how she fared.

"Oh, mem, it's terrible financial distress me an the childer's in!"

"Why, what is it—are you out of employment?"

"No, mem; work's in a fair state o' stidiness, and not a cint do I owe, but it's lashins o' trouble I've got!"

"Are you not paid promptly?"

"As promptly as the day comes round."

"What is your financial distress, then?"

"Well, mem" (in a burst of horror), "what's the killin me is, I earn $6 the week an pay $8 for me board, an God only knows how I do it!"—Short Stories.

Antique.

Says a dealer in antiquities: "I had a fat woman in here the other day. Well, sir, she was a caution, was that fat woman. She would have the antique all through her house, sir, nothing but the antique for her house decoration. Why, sir, judging by what that fat woman said and bought in this shop, I should judge she was heartbroken, sir, that she couldn't get the shades of her ancestors for her parlor windows."—New York Tribune.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 21.—Members of the National Grange attended service twice yesterday, by invitation, at the White Memorial Universalist church. Last evening the pulpit was occupied by Rev. Oliva Carpenter Woodman of Michigan, wife of J. J. Woodman of the National Grange executive committee.

Report Denied.

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 21.—The mother of Charlotte Crane, the actress, resides in Springfield, and is the wife of Dr. Charles E. Bowles, a prominent physician. Mrs. Bowles said the report that her daughter was to marry Cadot Peterson of the United States navy was without foundation.

ANCIENT WARFARE.

How an English Castle Was Attacked in the Fifteenth Century.

Sir John Fastolf had by his will devised his castle, called Caister, to John Paston. As a fortification, it was an excellent defense against foreign invaders, and as a residence it was worthy of royalty itself. In fact, the Duke of Gloucester, afterward Richard III, at one time contemplated making it his abode.

While Faston was trying to establish his title in the courts the Duke of Norfolk purchased a pretended claim to it and sought to gain possession by force. The Pastons did not propose to yield, though the duke was then probably the most powerful noble in England, and four professional soldiers were sent up from London to aid in the defense.

They are described as "provyd men, coming in wren and can wel schote both gounes and crossbowes and deysse bowlerkys and keep wache and warde. They be saddy and wel advyced, saving on of them, whyche is bailyd (said) to yit he is no bawler. Ye shall fynd them gentlymanly comfortable fellows, and that they dare abyde by ther takyng."

Young John Paston, aided by these four and by a handful of personal friends and followers, held the castle for several weeks against a siege conducted by the duke's army of 3,000 men. By the terms of the final surrender the besieged were allowed their lives and goods, horses and harness, and a respite for 11 days, in which to go where they pleased.

They reported that they were forced to surrender by "lak of vitayl, goneydye, dyr, menyis herts and surete of rescue." Edward IV had refrained from interfering in this extraordinary contest, because the troubles with Warwick were gathering thickly about him, and the Mowbrays were too necessary to be safely offended.—Sewanee Review.

JUDGE VOYLES' ILLNESS.

Report from Salem That He May Live But a Few Days Yet.

From a special to the Indianapolis Journal and from word received here from Salem it is learned that the condition of Judge Samuel B. Voyles is more alarming than it has been for some time. He is said to be unconscious and that he may live but a few days yet. It will be remembered that Judge Voyles had a stroke of paralysis last May and has been wholly incapacitated for the duties of the bench since. Judge John C. Lawler has held court for him most of the time since his illness.

The Jackson circuit court was to have convened today, but it seems that Judge Voyles has not been able to appoint any one to act for him, so there will probably be no court before Thursday at which time the county officers are authorized by statute to appoint some one to hold court during the term.

Clerk Elect Lewis' Deputy.

It is semi-officially announced that James W. Lewis, clerk-elect, has selected W. H. Burkley to be his deputy when he assumes the duties of the office. Mr. Burkley is thoroughly competent and will make an excellent deputy. Other men, who are also worthy and competent wanted the place but all could not be appointed. It frequently occurs that a choice must be made between good men.

Deputy Sheriff.

Sheriff Goss has appointed W. A.
Carter, his deputy for this part of the county. A very good selection. There were several other aspirants any of whom would also have made capable officials. Mahlon Boyatt will assist Mr.
Goss in the office during the present term of court.

Ex-Sheriff Stilwell Paralyzed.

A report reached here late this afternoon that Ex-Sheriff Stilwell had a stroke of paralysis about noon today and that his condition is regarded as precarious.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep.
She finally discovered a way to recovery
by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr.
King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured.
Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes W. C. Hammick & Co., of Shelby

venile actors in America and was en-
